manlifts and aerial platforms have become common and integral machinery in industrial settings in the last few decades. These machines provide an easy way to lift employees close to what must be performed on a stable platform apparatus, allowing staff to perform tasks with greater comfort and safety rather than being perched on top of scaffolding or ladders.

Similar to every other device, manlifts are just safe when they are utilized correctly. Because they elevate employees above floor or ground level, accidents can easily happen and this can cause serious injuries or fatalities for both the manlift operators as well as any passerby who may be unlucky enough to be standing underneath.

Manlifts come in different kinds. Nearly all fit into 1 or 2 categories: the scissor lift, which is capable of moving up and down and the articulating boom lift, which could move both horizontally and vertically.
